OCTOBER PRESS RELEASE

Art Talk Tuesday: Corrine Loomis Dietz

October 1, 2019 | 10:00 AM

Studio artist Corrine Loomis Dietz joins SAA for our monthly Art Talk Tuesday to discuss her process and investigation of acrylic paint systems.

Environment / Structure

September 7 – October 27, 2019

Elizabeth Burger, David Stuntzner, and Amanda Triplett uniquely examine external, surreal, and internal environments. Elizabeth Burger's sculptures explore an external, natural environment, structured by a potential to repurpose materials collected from nature. David Stuntzner's paintings provide a glimpse into an imaginary environment of atmospheric, biological, and geometric shapes structured with color and illusion. Amanda Triplett's sculptures explore internal environments filled with beliefs, culture, and emotion structured with abstractions of human biology.

September 7 – October 27, 2019

Using a variety of media, 11 emerging artists from Western Oregon University's Art Department were awarded an exhibition by SAA Gallery Director David Wilson. Artists include Jessica Brown, Hannah Chilton, Nell Danforth, Eric Frey, Sohaina Maratita, Sarai Fuentes Mendoza, Katherine Schubert, Teresa Stinar, Jenae Sweet, Cory Timmons, and Laura Willoughby.

Environment & Memory: Selections from the SAA Permanent Collection
September 7 – October 27, 2019

As a complement to the Environment / Structure exhibit in the A.N. Bush Gallery, Chris Colip, Willamette University intern, brings together artwork selected from the SAA Permanent Collection.

Diane Jacobs: WAKE

October 3-30, 2019

Reception: October 12 | 5:00-8:00 PM

WAKE is an installation that examines the intersection between settler colonialism, climate change, women's rights, and racism. Jacobs uses a variety of materials to challenge us to feel the physical, intellectual, and spiritual complexity of our times. We need to know our history, heal, and cultivate a relationship to the land, including all of her inhabitants.
