CALL FOR GUEST SPEAKERS
2019 - 2020

How does your creativity enrich our diverse community? What remarkable creative perspectives would you like to share? In honor of our centennial year, Salem Art Association and the Bush Barn Art Center introduce a new event called “Arts in Our Lives” – a series of diverse presentations that promote an appreciation for creativity in the visual, literary, and performing arts. “Arts in Our Lives” begins September 2019, and we are accepting applications for individual or group presentations. An academic degree is not necessary and there are no age restrictions. If you have something remarkable and artistic to share, we would like to hear from you. Stipends are available.

To apply, please email the following materials to David Wilson, Gallery Director, at david@SalemArt.org by August 16, 2019 for best consideration:

- A letter of introduction
- A one-page presentation proposal concisely describing your topic, what impact your topic will have on others, and estimated presentation length. If you are working as part of a group, please explain your specific contributions to the larger project.
- Resume or CV with a list of three references – you may include additional supporting materials
